A Lovely Demonstration

The greensward near the graceful Jefferson Memorial in Washington, D.C., with sunlit water in the background, is as pretty a setting as could be found for an outdoor wedding in springtime. Two young lovers who admire the works of Jefferson decided to get married there.

Imagine, please, their reaction when they applied to the National Park Service for a permit and were handed a form to fill out headed "Notice of a Proposed Demonstration." The park service gets lots of requests for permission to demonstrate on public land but few to stage weddings. A single printed form did double duty.

And why not? A wedding is a demonstration, too, of respect for tradition, propriety and of course, love. — Miami (Fla.) Herald

Banish The Billboards

Even if no penalty were involved in delay, it is high time North Carolina did something about removing the advertising billboards that line its interstate and primary highways. Unless it does, the state is now likely to lose $9 million in federal highway funds. A 1967 state law gives the Highway Commission the right to acquire, by condemnation if necessary, billboards erected within 660 feet of interstate or primary highways and to set regulations on placement of billboards in zoned and unzoned areas.

Billboard control has long been in contention here and in other states. Because the panels are profitable to the owners, and presumably to the lessees, any proposal to remove them has always met opposition. Land rentals for billboard purposes are also cherished by farmers. We believe, however, that a proliferation of billboards along the highway creates an unsightly situation that diverts motoring vision, obscures scenic attractions and "pollutes" the landscape.

North Carolina's interstate routes are not yet over-exploited for advertising purposes, although there is beginning evidence of this. The time to remove them, and to ban future signs in proximity to the road rights-of-way, is now. — Asheville (N.C.) Citizen

Saturday Is Poppy Day in Hope

Volunteer sales girls of Leslie Huddleston unit 12, American Legion Junior Auxiliary will be on the streets of Hope Saturday, May 29 offering Poppies for sale to help the Disabled Veterans and their families.

The money collected from the sale of poppies provide the only income for many hospitalized Veterans, prove you care by giving and wearing a poppy Saturday.

Ford Shocked at Poverty

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Henry Ford II rates the environment as No. 5 on the nation's list of problems.

The board chairman of Ford Motor Co. says the first four are: poverty, education, housing, and crime.

"To me it seems incredible that the wealthiest nation in history should still have substantial numbers of its citizens living in absolute poverty—unable to obtain the food, the shelter and medical care required to maintain physical health and life itself," Ford said Thursday.

Ford spoke at the annual trustee dinner of the Midwest Research Institute after accepting its annual citation.

California Upholds Lady Bartenders

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The California Supreme Court has struck down a law banning lady bartenders, saying the pedestal upon which women are placed is too often revealed as a cage.

In a unanimous decision, the court ruled Thursday that the law violates the U.S. Constitution's equal protection clause.

The court also said the law transgresses on the explicit ban in the state constitution against disqualifying any person because of sex from "entering or pursuing a lawful business, vocation or profession."

Women should not be excluded from bartending "for their own safety," but should be permitted to take their chances along with men when they are otherwise qualified for the job, Associate Justice Raymond E. Peters said in the court's opinion.

"Such tender and chivalrous concern for the well being of the female half of the adult population cannot be translated into legal restrictions on employment opportunities for women," Peters said of the 1936 law.

"The pedestal upon which women have been placed has all too often ... been revealed as a cage."

Peters noted that the state attorney general had argued that the legislature believed that a male bartender or owner must be present to preserve order and protect patrons.

"This argument ignores modern day reality," Peters said. "Today most bars, unlike the saloons of the Old West, are relatively quiet, orderly and respectable places patronized by both men and women."

The court ruled on appeals by two Los Angeles bar operators, Sailors Inn, Inc., and Walter Robson. The state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control had sought to revoke their licenses for using women bartenders.

Baby Dies in Freak Accident

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Nine-month-old Karen Peterson, daughter of Jane Peterson of Fayetteville, died Thursday night in a freak accident.

Police said the mother told them that a pacifier was on a string around the child's neck and that when the mother returned, after leaving the child alone for about 90 minutes, in a car, she found that the baby had fallen off the seat and strangled.

Long and Happy Life Hinges on a Man's Ability to Say 'No'

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Survival depends on the ability to say no.

It is often more pleasant to do everything anyone asks you to, but it can lead you into some of life's more disastrous byways—or even an early grave.

You are unlikely to live a long and happy life if you never listen to the still small voice of caution whispering urgently, "Stop: This is far enough."

How do you learn to say no? Simply by saying it in every situation in which you could wind up being a patsy. Here, for example, are some invitations which, if accepted, are almost certain to lead to rue or ruin:

"Since taking my yoga lessons I feel as relaxed as a pretzel. Shall I teach you how to do a few?"

"Oh, go ahead and quit dawdling, George. The light will turn green before we're halfway across the street."

Over 200 Enemy Dead in SE Asia

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of U.S. and South Vietnamese aircraft bombed and strafed North Vietnamese forces today near the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Snuol. More than 200 enemy soldiers were reported killed in a third day of heavy fighting.

Ground fighting raged only 500 yards west of the town, but the Saigon command said Snuol was under control of South Vietnamese troops. "There are no more enemy in the town now," said a spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien.

The command said 500 South Vietnamese infantrymen, supported by tanks and U.S. planes, fought a three-hour battle with an equal-sized North Vietnamese force and killed 99 of the enemy.

Thirty minutes after the battle ended, South Vietnamese bombers attacked enemy forces massing about a mile northeast of Snuol. Hien said aerial observers counted the bodies of 120 North Vietnamese.

The U.S. Command reported that American helicopter gunships flew nearly 600 missions in support of South Vietnamese forces in eastern Cambodia during the past two days.

U.S. B52 bombers were diverted from other targets to attack North Vietnamese base camps and supply depots supporting the troops besieging Snuol.

Snuol is on Highway 7, 10 miles from the South Vietnamese border and 90 miles north of Saigon.

The action is the heaviest in eastern Cambodia in three months. It broke out Wednesday when as many as 400 North Vietnamese soldiers invaded Snuol and triggered fighting in the market place. The main force was driven back to the outskirts of the town Thursday with the help of U.S. air strikes, spokesmen said.

In South Vietnam, allied fighter-bombers and South Vietnamese infantrymen attacked North Vietnamese forces in and around the A Shau Valley and killed 56 enemy soldiers. Saigon headquarters reported.

High Court May Need Safe-Cracker

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief justice of the United States may need a professional safecracker to perform a biennial task assigned him 100 years ago.

He is supposed to open the "centennial safe" hidden away in a Capitol storage room. But nobody can find the key.

The fireproof, velvet-lined safe, supposedly containing documents, photographs and memorabilia of the 1876 U.S. Centennial, carries an inscription requesting it be opened July 4, 1976, by "the chief magistrate of the United States."

A memorandum given to a House Appropriations subcommittee recently by George M. White, architect of the Capitol, indicates the key to an inner door in the safe and instructions on how to open the vault were deposited with the Smithsonian Institution.

"They know nothing about it," said Rep. Bob Casey, D-Tex., a committee member.

The office of the architect figures the combination to the outer door is somewhere in the Capitol files.

The hearings, a transcript of which was made public today, hinted the safe may be so weather-beaten from years of exposure to the elements that the outer lock may be out of order.

They cast a cloud of doubt about whether some of the things supposed to be opened to public view are actually inside.

"A reliable tradition recorded in the architect's office," the committee learned, "is that a custodian made a bit of pin money by opening the iron doors to visitors and showing them the contents through the locked glass doors of the safe before the safe was moved" to a storage facility under the East Portico.

For nearly 80 years, the safe remained there, exposed to the elements. In 1958 it was brought inside.

Displaying the safe at the 1876 centennial exposition in Philadelphia was the brainchild of Mrs. Charles F. Deihm of New York, described in the architect's files as "a publisher, a dedicated patriot, a Civil War widow."

Asked if he has any new ideas about where they key may be or what to do if it doesn't show up, White replied: "Anything that can be locked can be opened. We'll find someone to do it."

Numbers Game Millions Are Behind Kidnap

By ARTHUR EVERETT
Associated Press Writer

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — It's been nearly nine years since Joseph "Newsboy" Moriarty turned his back on a cache of $2.6 million in his numbers racket profits, after they turned up in Jersey City garages. But if he's forgotten the money, others haven't.

Once described as an honest man in a crooked business, Moriarty, 60, was recovering today from a beating and torture by fire at the hands of three unidentified kidnapers, bent upon learning if and where he had hidden additional money.

Seized here late Wednesday, Moriarty was handcuffed and a hood placed over his head. He was driven south about 60 miles along the Jersey shore. There his hands and face were severely burned with a blowtorch, his body covered with bruises.

When his abductors fell asleep, Moriarty managed to escape still in handcuffs. He staggered through some woods to a motel, where police were called about 4 a.m. Thursday. After treatment, Moriarty signed himself out of Jersey City Medical Center and dropped from sight.

"We have no idea why he was kidnapped or who might be responsible," said Jersey City's deputy police chief, Patrick McGee. "Newsboy told us he was not sure he could identify the three men, and he didn't even know where the house was. He only said: 'They were real tough guys.'"

It was July 3, 1962, when Moriarty's millions were uncovered by accident. He had gone to prison four months earlier, serving 2-to-3 years on a numbers conviction.

Wreckers tore down the doors of an old garage, and came upon a 16-year-old sedan. Inside the car were stacks of $10, $20, $50 and $100 bills—$2,438,110 in all.

Subsequently, in a garage a block away, police found another cache, this one of $168,675.

Moriarty declined to claim the money, or even admit it was his.

A legal dispute over who was to get the hoard continued through the years, with litigation still pending in the 3rd U.S. Court of Appeals.

Money had been in Moriarty's hands since the age of 13, when he traveled nightly to New York City to pick up newspapers. Then he came back across the Hudson to hawk them in Jersey City. Before long he was picking up numbers bets, first as a sideline, later as a full-time occupation.

"Joe just took bets," a veteran Hudson County detective recalled. "No muscle, no violence, no dirty stuff. He didn't mix with narcotics, prostitution or syndicates."

And another officer said: "Moriarty was essentially an honest, industrious man in an illegal business."

Court records listed Moriarty's gross handle in 1961 at more than $43,000 a day—better than $15 million a year. He was a loner in his profession and the profits were his alone.

Annexation Reform Bill Progresses

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Former state Rep. John I. Purtle of Little Rock said Thursday he was confident of the success of a petition drive he heads to refer the "antiquity-killer" law to voters in the 1972 general election.

Purtle said already about 10 per cent of the signatures required had been obtained.

The statute, which was approved by the 1971 General Assembly, would nullify the 1969 act written by Purtle that gave persons living in areas that are proposed for annexation by cities a veto power over the annexation.

The American Indian Makes Motion Picture the Way He Likes It

By CHARMIAN OGDEN
Associated Press Writer

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The curtains parted and the movie began, showing a brilliant sun rising over a stark New Mexico landscape. A man on horseback rode into view and the first credit appeared:

"The Jicarilla Apache Tribe of American Indians Presents 'A Gunfight.'"

The audience burst into applause.

Most of the those applauding were members of the Jicarilla tribe, assembled for the premiere Thursday of a movie in which the New Mexico tribe has invested $2 million.

The tribe borrowed the $2 million to avoid dipping into its $13 million in invested assets. It will get the first $2 million in profits of the movie and 25 per cent of the profits after that.

Charlie Vigil, the tribal president and originator of the idea to finance the picture, cited the monetary rewards of the partnership between the Indians and the industry that has produced hundreds of westerns depicting Indians as the losers in battle.

Itinerant Death Toll Now Is 20

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — Eight more bodies have been dug up in fruit orchards near here, bringing to 20 the number found along the Feather River, law enforcement officers said.

"It seems there's no end to them," a weary deputy sheriff said as the toll mounted Thursday.

Sheriff Roy D. Whiteaker said three more bodies were found Thursday afternoon for a total of 15.

Later, a Yuba City policeman and a deputy sheriff said the number of bodies rose to 20 as night fell.

"Somewhere around here we've got one hell of a crime scene," the policeman said.

Both asked that they not be identified as Whiteaker directed that others not comment on the case. The sheriff refused comment on whether the additional five bodies had been found.

Whiteaker had said the first 15 bodies were of transient farm workers or drifters ranging Indians are going to win," he told guests at the premiere ceremonies.

The movie itself is not an Indian-white man confrontation, although it does have a Western setting. It is the story of two gunfighters down on their luck who agree to a shoot-out for pay. The two become friends as they try to attract a sellout audience for the winner-take-all gunfight.

The movie stars Johnny Cash and Kirk Douglas. Most of the filming was done near Santa Fe at a movie town owned by J. W. Eaves, who shared credit as producer with Ronald Lubin.

Dignitaries at the premiere included U.S. Indian Commissioner Louis Bruce, who traveled from Washington to be present, Cash, the producers and writer Harold Bloom.

But members of the tribe made up the bulk of the premiere audience. All 1,800 were invited, and about 500 were present.

Parents brought whole families and clasped the hands of wide-eyed youngsters under 30. Two of the younger girls had single feathers fastened neatly in their hair.

Wreck Kills 45, Including 40 Children

WUPPERTAL, Germany (AP) — Forty schoolchildren and five adults were killed Thursday night in the worst train wreck in West German history.

Railroad officials said at least 24 other persons were seriously injured in the head-on collision of a special two-coach passenger train and a freight.

The two trains crashed into each other on a single-track line between the Wuppertal suburbs of Oberbarmen and Radevormwald. The freight train engineer, who was not hurt, told authorities he had gotten a go-ahead signal from a station master up the line, but the station master denied giving such a signal.

Railroad officials suspended the station master, and an investigation into the cause of the wreck was under way.

The boys and girls in the wreck were 15 and 16 years old, seniors at the Radevormwald junior school. They were returning from a study tour of the North German city of Bremen.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLarty, Mr. and Mrs. Mack McLarty and Bud McLarty returned Monday from a week's stay in Paradise Island, Nassau, in the Bahamas Islands. They attended the 1971 F.A.L.S. National Leasing Convention.

Mack McLarty was the principal speaker on the Friday program. His topic was "Truck Leasing". He was introduced by John B. Costello of Detroit, who is National Ford Authorized Leasing System Manager of Ford Motor Co.

Mr. Costello, in his introduction of Mack, pointed out that this was the first Father-Son combination, who had both been principal speakers for the Leasing Convention since its organization in 1959.

Frank McLarty was the speaker in 1968 for the meeting in Las Vegas. The convention gave the McLarty's a standing ovation for this accomplishment.

Memorial Day is Monday, May 31. As far as could be learned, the following will be closed: both banks, county courthouse offices, all federal offices. In the Post Office Dept., there will not be any city or rural delivery but mail will be put in the boxes and stamps will be available in the machine in the lobby. Open for business, as usual, will be downtown merchants, shopping center merchants, grocery stores, automobile agencies, etc.

Some of the modern-day "Bowie knives" which will go on display at the James Black Blacksmith Shop Museum in Pioneer Washington June 1st, have already arrived in Arkansas from out-of-state manufacturers. More than two dozen current manufacturers will send knives for the permanent display in the museum where James Black made the first Bowie knife over a hundred years ago.

A Flea market will be held in the Stroud building in Washington, Saturday and Sunday, June 5-6. Admission is free. Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. To reserve a table to display your own treasures, call 983-2875.

Beginning Tuesday, June 1, the Selective Service office in the Federal building will be open only three days a week: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Don't forget: Boy Scouts will pick up scrap paper and magazines, Saturday, May 29 - tie the bundles with string, not wire, put on your porch or sidewalk.

Angry Island Holds Vigil on Mafia

FILICUDI, Sicily (AP) — Two hundred police in battle gear landed on the rebellious island of Filicudi today to enforce the exile of 18 reputed Mafia bosses. The residents promptly announced they would abandon the island in protest.

Unshaven and red-eyed after three sleepless nights, islanders watched impassively as the police disembarked at the main port after coming from Sicily.

Then their agitation committee issued a communique saying the inhabitants were "constrained by events" to leave the island if the underworld exiles remained. They made preparations to leave.

The 200 or so residents of this fishing island charge that the exile of Mafia suspects here will spoil tourism.

The police came after the Mafia chiefs and their police escort spent their second back-breaking night on chairs, tables and the floor of a lonely seaside cafe and a requisitioned hotel under construction.

The police landing was hampered by the refusal of local fishermen to help in the operation.

After the police landed, the residents caucused hurriedly. They rejected a proposal to strengthen barricades blocking the road into the village, and another to launch a guerrilla operation against the unwanted invaders—the police and the Mafia bosses.

Calling for "good sense" and nonviolence, the Filicudians' committee said it hopes authorities would change their minds and "recognize the just reasons of our people" in asking that the Mafia be sent elsewhere.

The Italian government decided to move known Mafia leaders to isolated islands—where they could be kept under constant surveillance—after the killing of the public prosecutor in Palermo, the Sicilian capital. Seventeen members of one gang were taken to Linosa, south of Sicily; the islanders grumbled but put up no active resistance.

Not so the Filicudians. They waited up Tuesday night, and when the mafiosi were landed Wednesday, the locals scuffled with the police. They couldn't prevent the landing, but they kept the police boats from unloading cots and food for the unwelcome guests.

Since then the Mafia chiefs and their guards have been staying in an isolated seaside cafe and a hotel under construction, with no beds, no blankets and little food. Two policemen who had not eaten for two days fell ill Thursday from hunger and exhaustion. One was flown by helicopter to a hospital in Sicily.

Scores of persons from the nearby islands of Lipari and Stromboli came over to bolster the Filicudians. In another show of solidarity, stores and a small factory on Lipari closed for the day Thursday, and Lipari's town council appealed to President Giuseppe Saragat to end Filicudi's designation as an open air prison.

Warm But Showery for State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Slightly warmer temperatures are expected in Arkansas Saturday, but there is a chance of thundershowers Saturday afternoon in the western portion.

Clouds and thundershowers moved across the state from the west Thursday, keeping temperatures in the upper 60s to low 70s in many areas. Skies cleared in the extreme south and west portions Thursday afternoon and temperatures climbed into the 80s in those areas.

Highs today were forecast in the 70s to low 80s with high Saturday forecast mostly in the 80s.

Vietnam Attempts Narcotic Curb

By LYNN NEWLAND
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government claimed "encouraging results" today in a drive to halt narcotics abuse and smuggling and denied reports that the campaign was launched under U.S. pressure.

Officials speaking at a news conference also sought to refute charges that numerous high-ranking South Vietnamese officials are involved in illicit drug traffic, as claimed by U.S. congressmen who investigated the growing drug crisis among American servicemen.

Minister of Justice Le Van Thu, who heads a special new anti-drug committee, said the drive thus far has seized 15 pounds of heroin, 6.4 pounds of opium and 1,716 pounds of marijuana. Since Jan. 1, 1,040 persons have been arrested, he said.

Thu also said four illegal drug labs have been shut down and 30 drug store licenses revoked for illegal narcotics sales.

He said the government suspects that most of the heroin comes from Thailand, Laos and Hong Kong. He said efforts were being made to work out agreements with those countries to stem the flow, which has increased sharply in recent months.

Thu acknowledged that several National Assembly deputies are being investigated in the drug crackdown, but did not elaborate.

Asked about charges by Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., that Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky was involved in drug traffic, Thu said an investigation would be made only if McGovern "can provide more details on his charges."

Ky repeatedly has denied McGovern's allegation.

Thu emphasized that the anti-drug campaign was begun by the government on its own initiative and not because of pressure from U.S. officials.

However, Thu cited the cooperation of American officials and said the two governments were exchanging information on the drug situation.

According to responsible sources, the drug crackdown was started after U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the U.S. commander in Vietnam, made a direct appeal to President Nguyen Van Thieu for help in combating the problem among American servicemen.

IT RAINED BEANS
JOAO PESSOA, Brazil (AP) — It rained beans the other day. Brazilian rancher Salvador Targino insisted, as he showed newsmen and local officials the small vegetables that fell suddenly on his property.

That's what happened, all right, said Delmiro Maia, a federal agriculture official assigned to Paraiba state. Maia speculated that a recent storm swooped up a pile of beans from Western Africa and dumped them over Northeastern Brazil.

Targino boiled some of the beans and said they were too tough to eat.

Opening of Kennedy Center Big Success; Proceeds to the Poor

By MARY CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's newest culture showcase, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, has opened its doors for the first time: a high-society preview viewing party to benefit the disadvantaged.

Some 3,500 persons paid $40 or $100 each Thursday night to attend the party. Money will be used to make the Kennedy Center accessible to the young, old and poor, beginning with the Sept. 8 premiere of an orchestral work by Leonard Bernstein.

The National Cultural Center was renamed the Kennedy Center two months after the death of President John F. Kennedy. His brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, said at the preview: "This center is not only magnificent, but the significance of it is what happens inside of it. What is terribly important now is that we have creativity here. And it's important that money be raised like tonight so that people who don't have much money can attend."

Looking around the center, where, unlike the culture centers in Los Angeles and New York, all the halls are under one roof, pianist Victor Borge said, "It's bigger than Denmark." Gazing at the 100-foot-high ceiling, he added, "And it's taller."

Patrons entered through the Hall of Nations, hung with flags of countries recognized by the United States. The parallel Hall of States was hung with state flags. Both halls lead to the Grand Foyer and its outdoor terrace, which runs the length of the building, 630 feet, along the Potomac River. The opera house, between the two entrance halls, and the concert hall and Eisenhower Theater, at each end of the building, all open from the grand foyer.

Eunice Shriver, sister of the late president, trying to make a tour and constantly being greeted, said, "We haven't walked too far yet, but outside you see the trees of an island bird sanctuary in the Potomac and the river. I think it's a beautiful setting."

Rose Kennedy, the late president's mother, and two more sisters, Pat Lawford and Jean Smith, also were present.

So were Mamie Eisenhower, whose late husband signed the National Cultural Center Act in 1958; Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower, Marjorie Merryweather Post, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Martha Mitchell, Perle Mesta, Sol Hurok, George Romney, Arthur Goldberg, Capt. Lloyd Bucher, Eric Bruhn, Agnes de Mille, Otto Schlessinger, Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss, Rep. Hale Boggs, Henry Mancini, Count Basie, Lawrence O'Brien, Laurence Rockefeller, Otto Preminger, Rep. James W. Symington, Henry Kissinger, Sen. Birch Bayh, Jack Valenti, Byron Janis, Robert Finch.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey was succinct about the center. "I love it."

Big Anti-War Lobby Aims at 2 Senators

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two groups planning a massive lobbying effort for cutting off U.S. war funds in Indochina by the end of the year have listed 24 senators as special targets — including the Senate's top two Republican leaders.

But both GOP Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and his deputy, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, opposed a similar move a year ago and expect to do so again when the McGovern-Hatfield amendment comes up next month.

The 24 senators—13 of them Republicans—include 18 who opposed the amendment in 1970, five freshmen who have spoken in favor of President Nixon's policies and Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., who failed to vote or state a position a year ago.

Aides of the amendment's sponsors, Sens. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., and Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., told newsmen Thursday strength of the proposal is at last year's level and they are encouraged about chances for victory.

But the fight once more appears to be uphill.

The proposal is scheduled to be offered as an amendment to the Selective Service bill after a June 4 vote on limiting draft extensions to one year. McGovern-Hatfield seems likely to be voted on the week of June 14. It lost a year ago by a vote of 55 to 39.

The major lobbying effort is scheduled the week of June 7 by two groups combining as Lobby of Americans. Groups of lawyers, businessmen, religious bodies and labor leaders will come here to put pressure on senators considered open to change.

The two organizations are the Committee for Peace and New Priorities, including a number of labor leaders, and the National Council for an Indochina Deadline, created by a group of former government officials including ex-Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford and Edwin Reischauer, former ambassador to Japan.

if he could substitute a requirement for advance federal approval of any change in ownership of banks.

In the last 15 years, Gonzalez said, bank takeovers have risen spectacularly.

"Too many have not been healthy. They have been bought out for speculative reasons and this is what I'm trying to control," he said. Gonzalez said there are a number of ways one bank can exploit the resources of another bank it controls.

"They can milk it," he said, "creaming off the chief accounts by bringing them into the central bank. They can consolidate all credit life insurance policies (those taken out to protect debts) into the central bank because this is a very profitable operation. And they can unload bad paper on the bank taken over, leaving it with questionable or weak loans."

"Right now," Gonzalez said, "all the law requires for an insured state or federal bank when there is a change in management is to report to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. That's all. There's no power of review."

Gonzalez has been protesting the takeover of a San Antonio bank.

men. Killed with them were two of their teachers, a chaperone and two railroad employees.

The children had traveled from Bremen to Wuppertal in a regular passenger train and then changed to the diesel coaches known colloquially as railbuses.

Officials said the freight train was on a regularly scheduled run from Radevormwald to Wuppertal, and the passenger coaches were headed in the opposite direction. The collision occurred shortly after 9 p.m.

The freight made a scheduled stop at the small station of Dahlerau, where the line has two sets of tracks to permit two-way traffic. The engineer said he took a sign from the station master as the signal to pull out, but the station master denied giving any such signal. He told authorities he tried in vain to signal the freight to halt, then alerted all rescue stations along the line of the impending collision.

The first passenger coach was crushed by the heavier freight locomotive.

Many parents were waiting at the Radevormwald station for their children. When news of the accident reached them, panic broke out on the platform. Parents ran to their cars and raced to the scene of the accident as firemen, police and volunteers were prying dead and injured from the twisted wreckage.

The injured were rushed to hospitals in Wuppertal and surrounding communities. Surgeons operated throughout the night on the critically injured.

Bodies were laid out in the Radevormwald gymnastic hall. Grieving parents filed through to identify their children. Others frantically toured the hospitals.

Federal Transport Minister Georg Leler went to the scene of the accident this morning to survey it.

More Naval Cooperation Is Sought

By CARL HARTMANN
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS (AP) — Defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization met in Brussels today and Secretary Melvin R. Laird planned to appeal for greater naval cooperation in the Mediterranean.

Laird said on arriving Thursday for the one-day meeting that some of America's European allies are falling behind in their defense commitments.

Lord Carrington, the British defense minister, agreed but said Britain was not one of the countries failing to meet defense promises. He declined to name those that were.

All but France of the 15 NATO member nations were represented at today's semi-annual meeting.

The West German response to Laird's appeal was expected to be cool, at least for any direct German participation. But Defense Minister Helmut Schmidt was reported convinced that the European allies must explore the possibilities of greater cooperation in view of increasing demands in the United States for withdrawal of American troops from Europe.

Ten of the European ministers held a preliminary meeting Thursday, and Schmidt reportedly urged a new bid for full French participation in NATO's military alliance.

The late President Charles de Gaulle withdrew French troops from the unified command. But Schmidt suggested President Georges Pompidou may have a different outlook, particularly in the light of the recent U.S. Senate debate on cutting American troop strength in Europe and the possibility of talks with the Soviet Union on reduction of forces.

Carrington presided over the three-hour meeting of the Eurogroup. He told newsmen the Europeans are planning to do more to meet their commitments, not just because of the Americans but because they think they should. He said they would continue their European Defense Improvement Program—EDIP.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Two indictments were returned Thursday by the federal Grand Jury for the Eastern District of Arkansas. The indictments charged that five defendants conducted a bookmaking business in violation of the Organized Crime Control Act of 1970.

One of the indictments was made public because the defendants had already been arrested, but the other will not be made public until warrants are served.

Those charged in the indictment made public were Sloan F. Bennett, 48; Robert R. Bennett, 42; Floyd Alexander Hill, 38; Albert N. DeMers, 32, and Stephen C. Carroll, 22, all of Little Rock.

The five are charged with conducting a bookmaking business March 4 near the Pleasant Valley Country Club. They were arrested March 16 on a complaint filed by the FBI with U. S. Magistrate Robert W. Faulkner.

European allies are to spend an additional billion dollars on defense over five years. But this is not likely to remove much if any of America's present share of the European defense burden. Most of the money will be spent on aircraft shelters.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

FOR A SEVEN-YEAR RENEWABLE MARRIAGE LICENSE

Dear Helen:

Here's a modest proposal: Why should marriage, the biggest human contract we have, not be "subject to renewal or cancellation," just as other contracts are? And without the misery of divorce?

So—my suggestion: A trial run of a year (with no children started). This to work out the kinks, and if either party proves defective, the conditional contract carries a "singles-back" guarantee.

After this, the parties sign a two-year contract, renewable every seven years thereafter. I figure three years should pretty well convince the two whether or not they have a chance to make it as a couple. The latter seven-year contract is necessary because we are said to change completely about every seven years. Should the man and woman change in different directions, the agreement can be dissolved.

Seems to me this would keep married people on their toes and in there trying to fulfill the terms of the contract. As it stands now, you work your head off winning a mate, then often get lax and "un-trying" because, after all, you've got him (her), with divorce an expensive and sometimes very difficult alternative.

It's time we made marriage a business agreement with terms as tough and definite as any long, legal contract. I believe that man and woman, being so totally different in attitudes, reactions, feelings and needs, aren't conditioned to live together for life—unless they work like crazy to fulfill and grow with their partnership. Contracts which must be reviewed and voted on would make them work.

Will this day sometime come? —FORWARD THINKER

Dear Thinker:

Might could. I'm sure that within the next two decades, we'll see tremendous changes in marriage and family life (or lack of same). Judging from how fast we've moved in the last ten years, the whole thing is pretty frightening, yes? —H.

Dear Helen:

Please say a few words about women getting so fat. My wife, in her 40's is eating herself into an awful shape. There's nothing wrong with her health. Her appetite is the trouble.

The children and I are all slim. We watch our weight. Whatever we say just seems to have the opposite effect on her. She has a pretty face and a great personality but ever since we got married she has been gaining, and that adds up after 18 years.

How do you get through to her that she won't be well much longer, besides being an embarrassment to her family, if she doesn't go on a diet? —HUSBAND

Dear Husband:

Without nagging, get it across that while you don't love her less, you'd like to love less of her.

Insist that she get a medical checkup, and then, via praise and appreciation, beam her in on a losing streak. Membership in a reducing club helps, for here she will learn that good, balanced, low-calorie diets aren't pain when they bring such great results. —H.

Dear Helen:

You said "My pet peeve is women who are marital doormats for the sake of the children." Then you told a wife and family to fight back against the husband.

How many Christians have died from torture (Joan of Arc, etc.) to sustain "one jot or tittle" of Divine Law. We are not asked to be martyrs, only to honor and

The only fashionable wardrobe is a multipurpose one, says Ethel Moring of Peck & Peck. This three-piece navy Dacron polyester and wool pantsuit (left) is accented with a powder-blue collar. The jacket is cinched with a leather belt and the pant is slightly flared. Worn without the jacket (right) the powder-blue tunic features patch pockets cuffed in navy.

Save Money on Your Wardrobe

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — If you've got the fashion blues you can revitalize your wardrobe without spending a small fortune. The secret is to screen the clothes you have and shop carefully for those you need. Today women are less inclined to submissively follow the latest fashion decree. They wear what they like and what looks right on them.

This is the opinion of Ethel Moring, fashion executive of Peck & Peck, the nationwide specialty shops. She has designed a money-saving plan that helps to organize what you have and to figure out what you really need. Here's how it works:

Set aside some free time to go through your wardrobe.

Start by listing recent activities you've engaged in during the last month. Include occasional social events such as dinners, cocktail parties, PTA meetings, etc. Jot down the type of clothes worn and those you need for these occasions.

Try on everything in your closet and determine if your things are in good condition, fit, and most of all, whether or not you're tired of them.

Make a list of each item in your wardrobe, including coats, suits, dresses, jackets, blouses, sweaters and skirts and list next to each item how often you wear it. Weed out what you never wear or haven't worn in months.

List the clothes you are keeping and accessories that should be purchased to update them. Decide what you can afford to spend. Remember that financial authorities maintain that clothing should run about 12 per cent of net income. This is only a guide, however, and your own requirements should govern obey our husbands and fathers. Women got the vote. The least they can do is shut up, conform and be faithful. —FOR DIVINE LAW the amount spent.

Dear F.D.L.: I'm not for "supine squaws." Or conformity to tyrants. Sorry! —H.

First, decide on a basic color scheme. Buy the items and accessories you plan to use often and spend the most for them. Choose stores that are reputable and will guarantee their merchandise.

Read labels for special cleaning and laundering instructions. Ask sales personnel to help if you have questions.

Expand your wardrobe with coordinates, mix and match blouses, skirts, sweaters and pants.

Give yourself time to shop. Rushing to buy something for a particular occasion often results in an unhappy purchase.

Replace things before they are worn out so you won't have to compromise on what you're looking for. And accessorize your clothes as you buy them to avoid a last minute rush.

Look for double duty clothes that you can dress up or down — a raincoat that doubles as an evening coat, a coat with removable lining, a scarf that will go with any dresses and suits. You can also save fashion dollars by shopping at seasonal sales.

Take good care of your wardrobe, Miss Moring cautions. It represents a considerable investment.

BEEF TACOS

- 1 pound ground chuck beef
- 2 teaspoons chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon dried crushed oregano
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1/2 teaspoon garlic salt
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
- 12 packaged taco shells, warmed
- 3 cups knife-shredded iceberg lettuce
- 1 medium avocado (halved, seeded, peeled and sliced crosswise)
- 1 1/2 cups grated (medium-fine) mild cheddar or similar cheese
- Bottled taco sauce, if desired

In a hot 10-inch skillet over high heat (without added fat) cook beef, crumbling with a fork, until it loses its red color. Drain off any fat.

Add chili powder, oregano, cumin, garlic salt and tomato sauce; mix well; cook gently until very hot.

Spoon mixture into taco shells; top with layers of lettuce, avocado and cheese. If used, pass taco sauce.

Makes 4 to 6 servings.
Note: If you like, you may use an envelope of taco seasoning mix (1 1/4-ounce size) in this recipe. In this case, omit the other seasonings and add 1/2 cup water along with the tomato sauce; simmer for 12 to 15 minutes.

ABOUT TACO SHELLS
If you prefer, make your own taco shells (using corn tortillas) rather than using packaged shells. Here are directions:
Into a deep 8-inch skillet pour 1 1/2 cups salad (not olive) oil; heat oil.

Fold a tortilla in half, holding rounded edges together with tongs, dip the bottom of the tortilla into the hot oil (pressing down gently so bottom will be flat) until the bottom sets and crisps.

Slip the tongs inside the tortilla and quickly press one side under the hot oil, opening tongs to hold the shell open. Fry until crisp and brown, turn and brown the other side, again using the open tongs to hold the sides apart. Drain on absorbent paper.

Repeat process, folding and frying 1 tortilla at a time until all shells are crisp and brown.

As tacos are ready, keep them warm in a low oven before filling as directed in beef T.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's "Comment" next Sunday afternoon will be built around pornography and censorship, related subjects which may, by their very nature, increase the program's weekly audience. It routinely runs between 6 million and 8 million.

The half-hour, launched at midseason by the network with Edwin Newman introducing the guests, is a one-of-a-kind public service program—not a talk show, not a debate.

"Our idea is to fill a gap," explained producer Fred Freed. "We thought that people with ideas or opinions, people who are well known or not known at all, should have a chance to explain them without interruption, without editing."

The result may not always result in especially stimulating television, but a lot of people have been given a chance to speak their pieces in their allotted time—four and one-half minutes. The program consists simply of three or four people facing a camera and reading their pieces from a teleprompter. Many people with very good or even very bad ideas are nervous in front of cameras and others write pretty boring statements.

Politicians, as a group, are the worst, Freed says.

"They are used to making speeches. We say, 'Look, you've got four and one-half minutes to say anything.' And then they come up with a canned speech, which is the worst thing anyone can do."

The producer and his staff comb 80 publications each week looking for likely subjects and guests, who are then invited.

Each guest is instructed to appear for a taping with a statement he has himself written. Writer Tom Wolfe sat in the "Comment" office for eight hours and banged out more than 50 pages of copy. This was boiled down to 16 pages by Wolfe and further diluted later. Scientist Edward Teller refused to use a script—and said his piece without any notes in precisely four minutes and 32 seconds.

"We try to avoid professional free time hunters," Freed said, "and we're not interested in the people who turn up on the late night talk shows. We have had comparatively few women, but mostly because the requests come from women's lib. They are already getting plenty of exposure other places."

More than half the network's lineup of stations is now using the program—110 stations. Freed would like it very much, now, if it could find a sponsor.

KING TAKES OVER

MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — King Moshoeshoe II will succeed Botswana President Sir Seretse Khama as chancellor of the University of Lesotho, Botswana and Swaziland. Sir Seretse has been chancellor of the three-nation university since 1967.

If you need a house plan that provides a generous amount of space yet minimizes construction cost, this may be the plan you are looking for. This is a two-story house plan that incorporates a kitchen-dining area, work room, bath, a living room, master bedroom or a small bedroom and den on the first floor.

The second floor can be arranged into a bath, one moderately size bedroom and one extremely large bedroom or it may be arranged into one bath and three moderately sized bedrooms.

From the front, this house appears to be a single story building with a steep roof. The first floor incorporates 1008 square foot. The second floor incorporates 872 square foot. The garage and utility room incorporate an additional 392 square foot of space.

The work room is adjacent to the kitchen-dining area and is accessible from the garage and back yard as well as from the kitchen-dining area.

There is sufficient space for a washer, dryer, hot water tank and one large utility closet.

The kitchen-dining area includes an L-shaped cabinet arrangement and is so arranged to make maximum use of the kitchen space for a food preparation center yet provides an adequate area for informal dining.

The stairway to the up stairs portion of the house is adjacent to the dining area.

The plan provides a generous living space with the entry way inset for appearance and weather protection. There are two bedrooms provided on the first floor with large clothes closets. The largest of the bedrooms could be made into a den if so desired to meet the living habits of the family.

The second story of this house provides a generous amount of space for one bath, a number of large closets and either two or three bedrooms.

The entire first floor is brick veneer construction with aluminum siding or wood siding for the gables and the second floor on the back side.

The plan is complete and shows all details needed for construction including kitchen cabinets. This may be the house plan you have been looking for. Complete working drawings of this house plan, No. 677601, may be obtained free of charge from the Hempstead County Agricultural Extension office.

Alcindor Key Man in Game Tonight

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The National Basketball Association headed for its first on-the-court showdown with the rival American Basketball Association tonight with player of the year Lew Alcindor holding the balance of power over the younger league.

But what if Lew doesn't play in the game? That possibility arose Thursday night on the eve of the 8:30 p.m. EDT nationally televised clash when it was announced in Washington, D.C. that Alcindor would be married today.

Alcindor, the architect of Milwaukee's NBA championship, did not arrive here Thursday with other NBA stars but was scheduled to be on hand today for a workout before tonight's game.

Plans now call for Alcindor to catch a flight from Washington following the wedding in time to honeymoon in the Astrodome tonight—providing he makes flight connections.

The NBA would remain the favorite even without Alcindor because of its experience, but it would give the prestige-hungry ABA a closer match.

In another move affecting the NBA lineup, the Baltimore Bullets announced they did not want Earl Monroe to play in the all-star contest. A club spokesman said if Monroe played the Bullets "could take whatever measures are spelled out in his contract—which includes suspension or fine."

But Monroe said he was packing for Houston. "It's a matter of principal that I play. I'll be there."

Bill Russell, the former Boston Celtic player-coach, will coach the NBA stars.

The ABA, hoping to achieve some recognition against the older league, is led by Rick Barry, who has starred in both leagues, rookie sensation Charlie Scott of Virginia, Zelmo Beaty of the Utah Stars, and Indiana's Mel Daniels.

The game was the idea of the NBA and ABA players associations and does not have the blessing of the club owners. The players have been threatened with fines and suspensions for playing in the game, which will benefit the Whitney Young Foundation and the players associations.

Larry Fleisher, counsel for the NBA players, said the team members were not playing the game to spite league owners but to show the owners that the two leagues could meet in an all-star game without an "illegal" merger.

A blending of the rules of both leagues finally was ironed out Thursday. Under the setup, the first half will be played using the NBA's 24-second clock and NBA official ball. The second half will be the ABA's 30-second clock, red-white-and-blue ball and 3-point basket.

McCullough Heads Sports at Iowa State

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Louis G. Lou McCullough, a former Iowa State University assistant football coach, was named Thursday as the new athletic director at ISU.

McCullough, currently associate football coach at Ohio State University, succeeds Clay Stapleton, who left ISU to accept a similar position at Florida State University.

Prof. Robert C. Fellingner, ISU Athletic Council chairman, said the council was "enthusiastic" in recommending McCullough. "Lou is a man of tremendous ability and drive," Fellingner said. "He meets all the requirements the council established when it began the search for a director."

Both at Iowa State and Ohio, McCullough earned a reputation as an outstanding recruiter and coach. He and Stapleton had often coached together, including Iowa State from 1958-60. Both were assistant

Cleveland Runs Over Baltimore

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Ten little Indians eager for a score touched all the bases in Baltimore.

"Gosh it's good to beat that ball club once in awhile," Manager Alvin Dark said Thursday night after his Cleveland Indians overran the Orioles 10-5 with a 17-hit spree.

It was the first victory for the Indians in four games against Baltimore this season. Last year the world champions thumped them 14 times in 18 meetings.

In other American League action, Detroit nipped the New York Yankees 4-3; Milwaukee topped Minnesota 5-3 and Boston downed Washington 6-2.

In National League play, Los Angeles trimmed San Francisco 5-1; St. Louis trounced the Chicago Cubs 10-0; Pittsburgh beat Montreal 5-2 and Atlanta topped Montreal 4-1.

Ted Uhlaender paced Cleveland's assault against six Baltimore pitchers with three hits and four runs batted in. His two-run single off Tom Dukes in the sixth inning snapped a 4-4 tie, enabling right-hander Steve Dunning to nail his fourth straight victory and fifth in seven decisions with last-inning relief help from Phil Hennigan.

Vada Pinson also poked three hits for the Indians and five teammates had two apiece.

Frank Robinson, whose two-base error keyed a three-run Cleveland third that sent the Indians ahead 4-0, doubled home two runs as the Orioles scored four times in the fifth knot it.

But Uhlaender's bases-loaded single put the Indians on top to stay in the sixth. The veteran outfielder's three-hit performance raised his season batting mark to .310.

Mickey Lolich weathered successive fourth inning homers by New York's Bobby Murcer and Johnny Ellis, then pitched out a ninth inning jam to bring his record to 8-3 as the Tigers posted their eighth victory in nine games.

Willie Horton slammed his 10th homer of the season for the Tigers, who erased a 2-1 deficit on consecutive run-scoring singles by Al Kaline, Horton and Bill Freehan in the sixth.

The Brewers came from behind to trip Minnesota on pinch-hitter Roberto Pena's bases-loaded triple in the eighth. The Twins had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the eighth on Paul Ratliff's two-run homer.

Reggie Smith and Rico Petrocelli homered for the Red Sox and pitcher Gary Peters cracked a two-run single as the East Division leaders went three games up on second-place Baltimore.

On Richie Allen's first-inning single, pitched a four-hitter as the Dodgers salvaged the last game of the three-game set. Bill Sudakis delivered a home run in the Los Angeles cause.

Roberto Clemente and Manny Sanguillen ripped home runs as Pittsburgh whipped Cincinnati and handed winless Jim Merritt his seventh loss of the year.

Merritt, a 20-game winner in 1970, has not won a game for Cincinnati since last Aug. 26.

Dock Ellis pitched a six-hitter and got support from Clemente's fifth homer of the year, a two-run shot in the second, and Sanguillen's bases-empty blast in the fifth, his second circuit clout.

Sonny Jackson's two-run single capped a three-run burst in the first inning and Atlanta rode Tom Kelley's four-hitter to the victory over Montreal. The Braves' decisive inning came with two out as Hank Aaron singled, Orlando Cepeda walked and Darrell Evans followed with a single for the first run.

Jackson then chased home Evans and Cepeda.

Aaron later hammered his 15th home run of the year and 607th of his career.

Ziegler Leads at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — It looks like Larry Ziegler is going to miss the Indianapolis 500 for the first time in five years.

"I've never finished more than 27 holes here before, and I was always in Indianapolis by Saturday," Ziegler said Thursday after cutting out a remarkable 62 for the first round lead in the $175,000 Danny Thomas Memphis Golf Classic.

"I've played here four times before," the sometimes stock boy for the St. Louis Blues hockey team said, "and I always had to pull out—bad knees, bad elbows, bad head."

"I almost didn't come this year, but since they're going to plow up the course before next year, I thought I'd give it one more whack."

Ziegler's eight-under-par effort, his career best, matched the low 18-hole round on the pro tour this year and gave him a two-stroke lead over always-dangerous Frank Beard going into today's second round.

Beard, winner of the New Orleans Open four weeks ago, used a refund putting touch—he needed only 26 strokes on the greens—en route to a 64 on the Colonial Country Club course, a 6,466-yard, par-70 layout that is one of the shortest the tourists play all year.

He had 10 one-putt greens, including one string of six in a row.

Lee Trevino and Chi Chi Rodriguez were two more strokes back at 66, with Deane Beman heading a quartet at 67. The others at that figure were Jim Colbert, Jerry Heard and Mike Reaser.

Gene Littler, winner of last week's Colonial National Invitation, had a 68 and Billy Casper was one of a large group at 69.

While most of the tourists found the little layout to their liking, Dave Hill had his troubles. The winner of this event three times in the last four years, Hill could manage only a 71, well back in the pack.

Hill, who had to pay a $500 fine for "conduct unbecoming a professional golfer" before he could play, must improve if he is to make the cut for the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday.

Jonesboro to Draw Famous in Sports

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The Festival of Champions track and field meet here Saturday is expected to attract college athletes from Tennessee, Missouri, Kentucky, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The highlight of the event may be the 440-yard dash where Elbert Stinson's record of 46 flat is in danger. Stinson of Arkansas AM&N, set the record in 1967.

The entries in this year's meet include Murray State's Tommie Turner, one of the top quartermilers in the world, who has equaled Stinson's record.

Boyer Speaks His Piece on Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — "We don't have the team, pitching or morale to win a pennant here," Cleve Boyer said Thursday night as he arrived from Montreal with hopes of gaining today his release from the Atlanta Braves.

"You can't play baseball every day under pressure like it is here," said Boyer, who added that his discontent with the Braves organization had been building for four years.

"Nobody has any enthusiasm, it's just all a lot of individual play," he said.

"I've just had all I can take."

Boyer requested his release from the Braves earlier this week when he and Paul Richards, the club's vice president, traded verbal blasts publicly.

Richards summoned the slick-fielding third baseman by telegram Thursday in which he said if Boyer failed to go by the Braves office by noon today "you will be suspended without pay indefinitely."

"I hope to hell I wake up in time so I don't get caught up in traffic," Boyer said. "I plan to be there at 11:59. I want to find out if his word is any good. I don't trust him."

The spat erupted Tuesday when the New York Post quoted Boyer as saying there shouldn't be any place in baseball for a man like Richards.

Richards replied, "For such a lousy player, Boyer does a lot of talking."

Richards said Thursday that any attempt at reconciliation would be "up to his attitude. Hell, I have no personal feeling about this. It'll be strictly professional as far as I'm concerned."

Asked if he thought the two could reach accord, Richards said, "Frankly, I doubt it."

Asked if there were any conditions under which he would agree to remain with the club, Boyer said, "Yes, one, if he'd let me take over the ball club and run it. I think I could. I think I know baseball."

Boyer said Richards had agreed to release him if Boyer would forfeit his 60 days severance pay—an agreement under which each would swap checks since baseball law requires the club to make the payment. Boyer said the amount was about $10,000. He said he signed this year for $45,000.

Liquori Favored in IC4A Mile

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If you apply the old thoroughbred racing theory of "horses for tracks" to Villanova runner Marty Liquori and Franklin Field, the only way Liquori can fail to win his third consecutive IC4A mile championship this weekend is if he falls down.

In four years of competition on Franklin Field's lightning fast Tartan surface, Liquori has never been in a losing race. This includes running on one freshman and nine varsity Penn Relay winners, his second IC4A mile triumph, and the 3:54.6 victory two weeks ago over Jim Ryan in the Martin Luther King Games.

Villanova is favored to outscore Maryland in the team competition for its 11th title in 15 years, but Liquori's bid for a feat accomplished only twice in the 94-year history of the IC4A has the spotlight. He is seeking his sixth IC4A mile championship—three indoors and three outdoors, accomplished previously by Leslie MacMillan of New York University—1940-41-42—and Dave Patrick of Villanova—1966-67-68—Liquori would be the seventh in meet history to win the outdoor mile three times.

Seven defending champions are scheduled to compete in the two day track and field meet involving 70 teams and 1,225 athletes, the most ever. Freshmen are eligible this year for the first time since World War II, with the exception of Ivy League entrants.

Liquori faces a field which includes William and Mary's Howell Michael, Maryland's John Baker, Penn's Karl Thornton, Mike Mosser of West Virginia and possibly Duke's Bob Wheeler and Manhattan's Joe Savage, both freshmen.

Michael defeated Liquori in the AAU outdoor championships last year, while Baker once beat the Villanova ace indoors.

Anderson & Frazier Lose to Merchants

In Babe Ruth League play Thursday night, Merchants team won over Anderson-Frazier 11 to 7. Bates and Brown shared pitching duties for Merchants combining to strike out 6 batters and give up 4 hits. Arterbury had 7 strikeouts but gave up 10 hits for the losers.

Corn Belt defeated Blevins 14 to 2 in the second game and remained undefeated in the league.

Monday night results: Corn Belt 7, Citizens 1; First National 6, Blevins 4.

Friday night games pair First National vs Merchants and Anderson-Frazier vs Citizens.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Featherweight Sammy Goss boosted his record to 23-2 Thursday night with an easy 10-round decision over Lorenzo Trujillo at the Philadelphia Arena.

No Alibis in U.S. Loss of Walker Cup

By TOM REEDY
ST. ANDREWS, Scotland (AP) — There were no alibis from the United States golfers today over losing the Walker Cup to Great Britain for the first time in 33 years.

"We have no excuses," said John Winters, the non-playing captain of the Americans. "It was a great tournament. We enjoyed every minute of it and the best players won."

The British gained their first victory since 1938 in the famed amateur competition by taking six straight singles matches that turned a 10-7 deficit into a 13-11 triumph in the windup of the two-day tourney Thursday.

"Hang on to that cup," Winters admonished the British. "In two years we'll be back to get it and you might not see it for another 33 years."

"I always knew this team was deep, sound the able to win," commented British captain Michael Bonallack who was beaten 3-1 by Lanny Wadkins, the U.S. Amateur champion from Richmond, Va.

Bonallack gave special praise to 19-year-old Warren Humphries and 20-year-old Roddy Carr, son of Ireland's famed amateur, Joe Carr.

Their two triumphs highlighted the British comeback after Wadkins' victory over Bonallack had put the Americans ahead 10-7.

Hugh Stewart beat Vinnie Giles of Richmond, Va. 2 and 1, then Humphries shaded Steve Melnyk, Jacksonville, Fla. 2 and 1 and Charlie Green beat Allen Miller, Pensacola, Fla. on the final hole to square things at 10-10.

Roddy Carr then put the British ahead to stay by beating Jim Simons, of Butler, Pa. on the final hole with a 30-foot putt. George MacGregor followed with a 1-up victory over Jim Gabrielsen of Atlanta and David March clinched the Cup by defeating veteran Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia 1 up.

Safe Boating Quiz

Q. Boat A is overtaking Boat B. On which side should it pass, left or right?

A. Either side is okay, just as long as Boat A stays well clear of the craft he is passing. Boat safety experts remind, however, that the boat being passed has the right-of-way.

Canadian TV Grid Program to Hurt U.S.

HAYWARD, Calif. (AP) — The Canadian Football League, which has lured some big-name U.S. college players north, may take away some of college football's television audience this fall.

The International Broadcasting Co., an independent network with headquarters here, announced Thursday that CFL games will be telecast next season, mostly on Saturday afternoons, to at least 15 major U.S. cities.

Robert M. Green, president of the network, said the U.S.

Allison in Car Switch for '500'

By HUBERT MIZELL
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Donnie Allison emphasizes "mind control" in rapid switches from his Mercury stock car to a low-slung entry in Saturday's Indianapolis 500.

"It's two different ball games," said Allison. "When you get to Indy, you wipe Charlotte out of your mind. When I'm here, I refuse to think about Indianapolis."

The Hueytown, Ala., driver led a second batch of World 600 qualifiers Thursday with a clocking of 156.150 miles an hour on the 1.5-mile Charlotte Motor Speedway course.

"We unfortunately didn't get a shot at the pole," said Donnie's car owner, Glen Wood, "but the race is the thing ... you get $600 for qualifying on top and $27,500 for being No. 1 on Sunday."

Allison was involved in car-burial tests in his car at Indianapolis and missed Wednesday's qualifying for the first 12 positions in the $200,000 World 600 stock car event.

The Wood Brothers Mercury had captured six straight pole positions before sitting idly by and watching Chargin' Charlie Gletzbach go 157.788 in a Chevrolet Monte Carlo.

David Pearson, No. 2 all-time winner on the NASCAR Grand National circuit, got his new Pontiac ready Thursday and was second to Allison with a lap at 153.925 m.p.h.

Others claiming starting positions in the qualifying for spots 13-24 were Benny Parsons, Mercury; Bill Dennis, Mercury; James Hylton, Ford; Cecil Gordon, Mercury; Marty Robbins, Dodge; G.C. Spencer, Plymouth; Elmo Langley, Mercury; Maynard Troyer, Mercury; Joe Frasson, Dodge; and Larry Smith, Ford.

Competition was amazingly tight. The 10 qualifiers behind frontrunners Allison and Pearson ranged only from 151.826 down to 150.229 miles per hour.

Three other drivers topped 150 and will have to come back today for further qualifying.

Allison's brother, Bobby, won the front row starting slot next to Gletzbach with a Wednesday speed of 156.585 in a Mercury.

Others who made it on the first day were Bobby Isaac, Dodge; Fred Lorenzen, Plymouth; Richard Petty, Plymouth; Pete Hamilton, Plymouth; Dick Brooks, Dodge; Buddy Baker, Dodge; Speedy Thompson, Chevrolet; Jim Vandiver, Dodge; Jim Paschal, Chevrolet; and Dave Marcis, Dodge.

After starting positions 25-36 are wrapped up today, the final four cars in the 40-man field will be decided Saturday prior to a consolation race for the nonqualifiers.

The three men who have won the 500 since Foyt's last victory will all be starting the race in television rights were purchased for about $500,000.

The CFL's commissioner, Jake Gaurdaur, was here for Thursday's announcement and called the new television money "minimal at present."

But, he said, the U.S. television exposure will help CFL teams sign more good American players.

"If an American player is seen on television here, he'll establish his name for the time when he finishes his playing days," Gaurdaur said.

In recent months, 1970 All-Americans Joe Theisman of Notre Dame and Jim Stillwagon of Ohio State have signed to play with Toronto of the CFL.

The Toronto team also signed quarterback Greg Barton, who was the property of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League and had been with the Detroit Lions.

Cities with stations planning to carry CFL games this year include San Francisco, Washington, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Kansas City, St. Louis, Dallas, Pittsburgh, San Diego and Buffalo.

'500' Climax in Sports for May

By MIKE HARRIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The month of May has seen record speeds, innovations in aerodynamics and electronics and a surprise pole sitter at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The story will be completed Saturday with the 55th running of the Indy 500, the premier auto race in the United States.

Thirty-three cars will begin the race at 11 a.m. EST with Peter Revson of New York, in his bright orange Team McLaren Mark 16, on the pole.

Revson surprised favored Mark Donohue, Media, Pa., two weeks ago by edging the boy-dash-faced graduate engineer for the inside spot on the first row with an average speed for the four-lap trial of 178.696 miles per hour.

Donohue's speed, good enough for the middle of the first row, was 177.087.

Filling out the front row is Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., who drove his Eagle-Offenhauser to an average of 175.816.

Denmark vs. E. Germany in Chess

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Grandmaster Bent Larsen of Denmark is just one point from victory in his World Chess Championship challengers quarter-finals with East Germany's Wolfgang Uhlmann.

Larsen lost a bid Thursday to win the 10-match competition when he gave up after the 41st move in their contest at Las Palmas, Canary Islands.

Larsen needs 5½ points to win. He now has 4½ to Uhlmann's 3½. The ninth match is scheduled for Sunday.

In another quarter-final match being held in Moscow, the seventh game of the Viktor Korchnoi-Yefim Geller series was postponed because Korchnoi was indisposed. The game had been adjourned Wednesday.

In Vancouver, grandmasters Bobby Fischer of the United States and Mark Taimanov of the Soviet Union Thursday night adjourned the fifth straight game in their quarter-final elimination match to select a challenger for the World Chess Championship.

At adjournment after 41 moves, Fischer was a pawn ahead and held the initiative. The game was played cautiously by both sides.

Entering the end game, Fischer had control of more space and Taimanov was forced on the defensive.

The game will be continued today.

Deceit Is Favorite in Mother Goose

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
Deceit, who fooled a lot of people by upsetting Forward Gal in the Acorn, will take a second step toward the New York Racing Association Triple Crown for 3-year-old Fillies in the Mother Goose Saturday at Belmont Park.

The $75,000 Acorn touches off a busy eight days of racing that will feature the $100,000 Jersey Derby Monday and will be climaxed by Canonero II's bid for the Triple Crown in the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes June 5.

Other big races Monday will be the $100,000-added Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont and the $75,000 Lakeside Handicap at Hollywood Park, and there even will be a stakes race Sunday—the $25,000-added Brandywine Handicap at Delaware Park.

Deceit, owned by E. P. Taylor, is expected to be opposed by five others in the 1½-mile Mother Goose.

They are Buckland Stable's Sea Sage, second in the Acorn; Alisco Stable's Forward Gal, winner of the Comely; Fendall M. Claggett's At Arms Length, first in the Black Eyed Sudan; Louisa D.A. Carpenter's Graftitti and Mrs. J. O. Burgwin's Bonnie and Gay.

The third race in the NYRA filly triple is the $100,000-added Coaching Club American Oaks over 1½ miles at Belmont June 19.

The Argonaut Stakes at Hollywood Park and the Governor's Cup Handicap, each a $50,000-added race over 1 1-16 miles on the grass, also will be run Saturday.

Eight 3-year-olds were entered Thursday for the Argonaut including Fast Fellow and Dr. Knight's, 118 pounds each, and Triple Bend, 114.

No No Billy, 124; Great Mystery, 122, and Rouge Chanteur, 120, head up a probable field of 12 for the Governor's Cup.

Three $25,000-added stakes are on tap Saturday—the Colonial Handicap at Garden State Park, the Frontier Handicap at Detroit Race Course and the Wilmington Handicap at Delaware Park.

Other Saturday features are the $20,000-added All American Handicap at Golden Gate Fields and the $15,000 Bayard Tuckerman Handicap at Suffolk Downs.

Muralist Bernard Lamotte puts the finishing touches on a wrap-around panorama of the Place de la Concorde commissioned by the French government for the New York Tourist Office. The floors will be done in a flagstone reminiscent of the exact street the artist is painting.

Muralist Seeks Beauty

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — When you are busy with hundreds of feet of mural and several assistants, you may not be aware of whom you are nudging away from your wet wall.

Several years ago, muralist Bernard Lamotte realized it was the late president, John Kennedy, he was unceremoniously hauling away by the sleeve. His distress was quickly alleviated by Kennedy's kindness.

Lamotte, a renowned painter, had been engaged by Joseph Kennedy to paint the vast walls of the White House pool as a gift to the President. The mural was of sailboats anchored off tropical West Indian ports and the undertaking was so large that just one boat alone was more than 40 feet.

As a little fillip, the muralist painted code flags on one of the schooners spelling out the names Joseph, Rose, John and Jackie. Immediately translating them, the President was delighted. He was so fascinated by the grandiose project and came so often to watch the progress that Lamotte became used to casually chatting with him. As a tribute to the painter, John Kennedy insisted a French tricolor go up on one of the anchored ships.

Bernard Lamotte was born in Paris but has lived in Southampton, Long Island, since 1936. His latest work is a wrap-around illusion for the French Government Tourist Office in New York. It is a huge, floor-to-ceiling, curved panorama of the Place de la Concorde in Paris, with the clerks working at garden-type balustrades that seem to be part of the Tuileries.

"It is a stage scene," said the painter. "The people inside are the actors standing on the Place de la Concorde and the people outside the store windows are the audience. The time is always the month of May."

But the hour, thanks to Lamotte's stage lighting, can be turned up to noon over the Champs Elysees or down to dusk over the Eiffel Tower. "For those in love with Paris, it is instant nostalgia," said its creator.

Some of the artist's tools are extraordinary. Very much part of the New York social scene, Lamotte's paints are mixed with a wire egg whip from La Grenouille, a gift of the owner of the "beautiful people's" restaurant.

The late owner of Pavilion, Henri Soule, once requested Lamotte to come to discuss murals for the walls of Cote Basque. His then-new establishment was a few blocks away from Pavilion.

"But first we had a real Soule-type lunch," Lamotte said, "including caviar enough for an army, a huge pot au feu, a magnum of champagne just for the two of us, pounds of different cheeses and more wine every minute."

"We lunched from 1:00 to 5:00 in the afternoon and I was both stuffed and absolutely staggering when Soule, cool as a cucumber, said, 'Well, now, what kind of murals will you do?' And when I just couldn't answer, he handed me the keys and said, 'Well, do whatever you want. Just let me know when you are finished.'"

Lamotte's favorite mural was done for Coco Chanel in her Paris townhouse, a trompe l'oeil vista of a bridge over the Seine with a real stone floor leading the unwary right into the bogus bridge.

In an interesting sidelight, Lamotte said that during the painting of the Cote Basque murals a policeman constantly stopped in to watch the work. Soon the officer said he was an amateur painter and could he please help during his days off. "He had this gun hanging at his waist, what could I do?" Lamotte said with a grin.

The cop turned out to be an excellent artist and decided to quit his job to become Lamotte's assistant, which he was for many years after.

Replete with murals for awhile, the artist now wants to return to smaller work. "I would like to illustrate stories of love, of friendship," he said. "There is too much sadness in this world. Sometimes just one little guide opens the eyes to the beauty still left. We all want so badly to learn how to laugh again."

SCA Beats Alabama Team 3-2

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Catcher Jim Palmer led off the 12th inning with a home run that gave State College of Arkansas a 3-2 victory over top-seeded Livingston State, Ala., Thursday in the Area 5 NAIA baseball tournament.

The loss was the second of the day for Livingston, the defending champion.

SCA, which has lost once in the double elimination tournament, plays David Lipscomb, Tenn., at 4 p.m. today. If SCA wins, it will meet Lipscomb in the finals tonight.

Jim Morgan drove in the Bears' first two runs Thursday with a single in the fourth and a sacrifice fly in the eighth. Trent Mallett went all the way for SCA, scattering 11 hits.

Finland's birth rate in 1970 dropped six per cent over the 64,000 registered births of 1969.

SHORT RIBS

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Fear May Inhibit Male Sex Drive

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband and I have been married for almost two years. He doesn't drink and has good habits. He is healthy and 24 years old. He never was a person who enjoyed sex but our relations were fair. Then the frequency gradually decreased until now he has no desire at all. We enjoy each other's company and I know he loves me. He has a child from a previous marriage and doesn't want any more children. I don't know what to do since we can't afford a doctor.

Dear Reader—Your husband is probably suffering a great deal more anxiety and stress about this problem than you are. A recent report said that as many as 40 per cent of American men have problems of the type your husband is experiencing.

There are many factors. One, interestingly enough, is excessive use of alcohol, which apparently does not apply to your husband. Many heavy drinkers lose their sexual capacity early in life. Often these difficulties are rooted in emotional and psychiatric problems. Some men have so much fear of an inadequate performance that the fear itself inhibits them.

Albuquerque Slices Lead of Travs

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The Albuquerque Dodgers banged out 12 hits Thursday and whipped the Arkansas Travelers 6-2, slicing the Travelers' lead in the Central Division of the Dixie Association to one game.

The Dodgers jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the second inning on a triple by Royle Stillman, a sacrifice fly and a home run by first baseman Terry McDermott.

The Travelers made it 2-1 in the top of the fourth on an Albuquerque error with the bases loaded. A home run by Bill Ralston in the bottom of the fourth put the Dodgers back on top by two runs. Albuquerque added two runs in the sixth and a single run in the eighth.

Arkansas scored its final run in the ninth inning on a double by Skip Jutze.

The loss left the Travelers one game ahead of the Memphis Blues, whose game with San Antonio was postponed Thursday night because of rain.

In other Dixie Association action, Dallas-Fort Worth clubbed Birmingham 13-6 and Shreveport clipped Amarillo 2-0.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Sitting Bull, an Indian chief and prophet, united the Indian tribes, which resulted in General Custer's massacre in 1876. The World Almanac says. In 1890, when hunger and disease caused unrest among the Sioux, Indian police were sent to arrest Sitting Bull. He was killed while allegedly trying to resist arrest.

By FRANK O'NEAL

wife are the two best treatments for this problem.

Sometimes individuals do have illnesses which cause their difficulties. These can only be detected by an adequate medical examination. It is very important in these areas as well as in other areas of married life, for the husband and wife to have frank and sympathetic communication with each other.

Your minister might be able to help. Many are well informed on intimate family problems. He might help you find a marriage counselor for professional help. The best place to start would be with a doctor, if you can arrange it. I would like to emphasize that you do need help.

Sometimes it helps just to know that your problem is not unique. In fact, it is downright common. Short of being able to obtain medical or other help, about the best thing I could suggest would be to obtain a copy of Masters and Johnson's "Human Sexual Inadequacy" to study the problem and suggested methods to overcome some of them.

Perhaps the mutual project of reading and understanding the book along with sympathetic understanding, would help the two of you to overcome your problem.

East and West have 22 high-card points; North and South only 18. East and West do have a 4-4 fit in hearts, but with the heart finesse losing and the 10 of clubs in the wrong hand the best they can make is two hearts.

If North and South keep still, East or West will become declarer at two hearts and a spade is likely to be opened or to be led after a couple of rounds of diamonds. In that case, if declarer tries the heart finesse he will go down one trick because he will lose a ruff of a spade in addition to two diamonds, two clubs and the king of hearts.

The panel that analyzed the charity game did not pay any attention to the fact that the hand really belongs to East and West, but the players we watched did.

The bidding in the box is that at the first table we watched. South put in one of those non-vulnerable preemptive jump overcalls and bought the hand at three diamonds. He had no trouble making his contract with an overtrick.

At the next table we went to, East decided to open with one heart. South passed. West raised to two hearts and when that was passed around to South he refused to sell out and bid three hearts. West went to three hearts. North bid four diamonds and East who must have been a trifle hungry elected to double.

South made the same four diamonds but scored 510, instead of just 130, for a real top score.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

CARD Sense

The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 ♥ Dble Redble Pass
2 ♥ Dble Pass 2 ♠
Pass Pass 3 ♥ ?
You, South hold:
♠ K 9 4 ♥ 6 5 4 3 ♦ 3 2 ♣ 10 8 7 5
What do you do now?
A—Pass. Life isn't as bad as it might be.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You pass as does West. You partner doubles. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Cigarette advertising on TV was banned in Finland at the beginning of the year.

Osteopaths Eligible to Practice

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office issued a formal opinion today declaring that all osteopaths now licensed by the state will become eligible to practice medicine and surgery effective July 19 upon application to the Arkansas Medical Board and payment of their fees.

The opinion by Deputy Atty. Gen. Henry Ginger went to Dr. E. M. Sparling of Hot Springs, secretary treasurer of the state Association of Osteopathic Physicians and Surgeons.

IF YOUR WAY IS DARK

ASK GOD FOR LIGHT

LEST WE

God has a destiny for America, and only eyes of Faith can read that destiny. Were it not so, all those who have, and will pay with their lives the last full measure, will have died in vain.

We need only to look at our cemeteries to have our manhood shocked and our Americanism awakened. Our allegiance would be strengthened by that look. We can never recompense for the supreme sacrifice and heartache the spilling of each drop of blood caused. But every American should bow his head in shame when he dares not to salute our Grand Old Flag.

Please let us, this day, rededicate ourselves and say a benediction for all those who have and will lay themselves, in our behalf, between our wonderful country and all her foes.

Lest We Forget.

Probe Charge Labor Unit Is Unfair

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Labor Department is investigating charges its Farm Labor Service knowingly breaks wage, health and civil rights laws in referring migrant workers to farm jobs.

A month ago several hundred farm workers and department employees filed 1,500 pages of documents they said proved the service was run for the good of growers—not the workers—and that it frequently violated the law.

"There is a real sincere dedication to get at the bottom of these charges," a Labor Department spokesman said Tuesday.

"We have established a special review task force to consider every complaint," he added.

The charges against FLS included accusations the service placed migrant workers on unsafe buses for lengthy journeys, recommended camps that violated state sanitation laws and minimum wage laws, and told migrants they could find work "around the corner" where unscrupulous employers waited.

Mario Obledo, executive director of the Mexican-American Legal Defense Educational Fund, said he was encouraged by the Labor Department's initiation of its own probe.

The fund is convinced, Obledo said, "this will mean early termination of the Farm Labor Service. The violations of law by the FLS are so blatant that the investigators, once they secure first-hand knowledge, will have no choice but to recommend immediate termination."

A lawyer with the Migrant Legal Action Program Inc., which helped prepare the April 22 petition, said "I think they are taking it seriously. They've got to come up with something. The problem is to keep the pressure on to show them we're not going to go away."

The petition contended the FLS, recently renamed the Rural Manpower Service, was so manipulated by large growers that it was beyond reforming.

They proposed it be replaced by a job referral service run by the migrants themselves.

Pearson Elected to Merit Order

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has appointed Lester Pearson, Canadian prime minister from 1963 to 1968, a member of the Order of Merit.

The Order of Merit, Britain's most exclusive order, is restricted to 24 members at a time. They are chosen for exceptional achievement in some field of endeavor.

Present members include painter Graham Sutherland, sculptor Henry Moore, composers Benjamin Britten and Sir William Walton, Nobel Prize-winning scientist Dorothy Hodgkin, and Earl Mountbatten, the military hero.

First helicopter to carry a man on a free flight was developed by Paul Cornu in 1907, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

MISS GWENDOLYN WILSON

Gwendolyn Wilson and Maurice Myton have planned a June wedding. Their engagement is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wilson of Route 1, Blevins. Mr. Myton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Myton of Kingston, Jamaica West Indies.

Miss Wilson is a graduate of Blevins High School and A.M.&N. College in Pine Bluff. She will receive her master's degree in social work from the University of Arkansas Graduate School of Social Work in June.

Mr. Myton is a graduate of Excelsior High School in Kingston, Jamaica West Indies. He will receive his bachelor of science degree in sociology from A.M.&N. College this summer.

The ceremony will take place at 4 p.m., June 12 in the Smith Memorial Chapel at A.M.&N. College, Pine Bluff. Rev. L. K. Solomon will officiate the service.

FBI Probes Shooting of Negro Girl

DREW, Miss. (AP) — FBI agents, under presidential orders, are checking to see if any federal violation was involved in the shooting death of a black high school honor graduate in this small north Mississippi town.

The slaying Tuesday night of 18-year-old Jo Etha Collier triggered rock throwing Wednesday and a peaceful demonstration Thursday.

Thirty-one Negroes also demonstrated Thursday in Ruleville, 10 miles south of Drew, and were arrested on charges of obstructing pedestrian traffic.

Three white men, brothers aged 26 and 25 and a nephew 19, have been charged with murder in Miss Collier's death. She was gunned down on a street while talking with a group of young blacks soon after she had graduated with honors from the local high school.

President Nixon called her death "an unnecessary tragedy" and ordered the FBI to check on possible violations of federal law.

Sam J. Ely Jr., circuit clerk of Sunflower County, has denied claims by the NAACP that there is racial tension in the area because of a black voter registration drive.

Troops in Europe Lack Arms

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. military officials report American forces in Europe still are not fully combat ready despite improvement in weapons.

They have told Congress a tight budget and cutbacks in overall U.S. manpower have caused the situation in the main.

Nevertheless, the European command maintains a "very respectable fighting capability," Gen. David A. Burchinal, deputy U.S. commander in Europe, recently told the House Appropriations Committee.

This is only good enough to hold the line in early stages of an attack on Western Europe, he said. "We are dependent on rapid, timely and substantial augmentation from the United States if we are to undertake sustained combat operations."

Shortages of various kinds began cutting into the combat readiness of American forces in Europe, the United States and elsewhere in 1965 as the Vietnam war claimed first priority in men and equipment.

Although Pentagon leaders have stressed their intention the last two years to repair the deficiencies as the war winds down, Burchinal said: "Not all U.S. forces in Europe are currently considered fully combat ready."

"There are many reasons for this, including our share of reductions the services have been forced to make, lower assigned personnel strengths and skill levels ... less money for training and exercises, and the priority of Vietnam requirements."

Cuts in the number of foreign nationals on U.S. military payrolls for economy reasons, Burchinal said, "has required use of military personnel for house-keeping duties, and a number of troops are thus diverted daily from their primary military duties."

Burchinal said critical skill shortages among petty officers in the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean, plus a lack of readily available repair parts, "combine to degrade combat readiness of the fleet."

But he said the European command has been bolstered by what he called "qualitative improvements," including more advanced jet fighters and fighter bombers, helicopters and armored equipment modern aircraft missiles, and completion of several hundred shelters to protect warplanes on the ground.

Arkansas News Briefs

DEWITT, Ark. (AP) — The $3.6 million Pendleton Bridge across the Arkansas River on Arkansas 1 south of DeWitt is to be opened today.

The bridge replaces a six-car ferry that has been operated toll-free by the state Highway Department for several years.

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP) — Shelly Fulgham, 3, of Fort Smith was killed Thursday night in a three-car accident at the intersection of Arkansas highways 253 and 45 south of here.

State Police said the victim was a passenger in a car driven by her mother, Brenda Fulgham, 21, of Fort Smith.

Mrs. Fulgham and three other persons were injured in the crash.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dr. Max Milam, director of the state Administration Department said Thursday that he had been notified that some federal funds would be available to help the department implement a new accounting system for state agencies.

Milam said he had asked for $87,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, but he did not know how much of the request would be received.

MORRILTON, Ark. (AP) — Conway County Sheriff Marlin Hawkins said Thursday he had settled out of court for $21,000 in a suit stemming from a September 1969 airplane crash in which he was injured.

Hawkins had sought $500,000. The suit was against Bill Jones, formerly of Perry, who was piloting a plane when the accident occurred.

Feminist Argues: For Supermen There Ought to Be Wonderwomen

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. Diane Kincaid, 33, new chairman of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women, says there should be some "wonder women," along with the "supermen" at the state Capitol.

The directors of the 13 major agencies under the reorganized executive branch of state government have been dubbed "supermen." Mrs. Kincaid feels that there are qualified women who could hold responsible state government jobs.

However, she said she has not yet discussed the matter with Gov. Dale Bumpers, who announced her appointment Wednesday.

One of the first projects she would like to see the commission undertake is the compilation of the names of competent women for a "talent bank." This bank could serve as a reference for job placement.

She said the majority of women who have contacted her since the governor announced her appointment are women who are forced to work. They are either divorced, widowed or have children, she explained. She said those who have contacted her have expressed hope that the commission will represent them instead of being composed of women who want on the commission for the "status" involved.

"Most women in Arkansas, work because they have to work," she said. "Yet when they go to work, they are confined to the lowest-paying, dead-end, monotonous jobs."

But Mrs. Kincaid says she does not agree with the contention of some members of the women's liberation movement, that women's lot is due to an "organized conspiracy on the part of men."

She sees the problems as one of public relations. Many women do not strive to improve their situation because they do not know what opportunities exist for them and because they have no examples of what women can do, she said.

"Public education can make women realize they can set their sights pretty high," she said.

As a means of education, Mrs. Kincaid proposes to set up a bureau of "articulate women" to speak to various women's groups around the state.

She does not see the bureau's mission as "driving anyone out of their home," because she said women are needed at home to care for their husbands and children. The speakers would explain what opportunities are available.

She said that this could help in such areas of getting former nurses back to work. Bumpers has expressed concern over the lack of medical personnel in Arkansas.

For another project, Mrs. Kincaid said she would like to see a group of women lawyers research the legal status of women in Arkansas.

Mrs. Kincaid describes herself as more of a "cause" women than a "club women." Although she does not belong to any women's rights groups, she said she participated in a women's symposium last month at the University of Arkansas and at another one at Southern Methodist University.

Mrs. Kincaid says she has not found many militant women's lib-types in Arkansas, even at the university, where she teaches political science courses on a part-time basis.

When she stops teaching next month, Mrs. Kincaid said she hopes to come to Little Rock to get the commission organized.

She sees living in Fayetteville as a hindrance for the commission's work, but she says through women members in Little Rock she intends to keep in touch with state government.

Mrs. Kincaid is married to state Rep. Hugh Kincaid and has two children.

A native of Washington, D. C., she was graduated from Cornell University with a degree in political science. She received her masters degree from the U of A in political science.

She said she did not know why Bumpers selected her, but she said she had qualifications other than being the wife of a Democratic state representative.

"I don't want anyone to think this was a prize for Hugh (from Bumpers) for his being a cooperative legislator," she laughed.

ing in age from 40 to 63. All had been hacked and slashed to death on the back of the head by a machete or similar weapon.

There were no descriptions of the latest five bodies. Isolated in a Yuba City jail and charged Wednesday with 10 of the murders was Juan V. Corona, 37, of Yuba City, who spent three months in a state mental hospital in 1956.

There still was no apparent motive for the macabre slayings.

1,000 to Attend Boys State

By PHIL PASTORET

NORTH LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The annual week-long exercise in government gets underway Saturday with the 31st annual session of the American Legion's Boys State.

The seven-day course is aimed at putting into practice the theories of government taught in the classroom. More than 1,000 youngsters will participate in the exercise this year at Camp Robinson near North Little Rock. The exercise ends June 4.

The three bodies reported by Whiteaker were in crude, shallow graves in peach and plum orchards. "I have no idea" how long the search will continue, the sheriff said.

Officers worked in cool rain Thursday, using a tractor-driven trench digger, then shovels to find three bodies.

Suspected graves have been discovered during general searches by lawmen and farmers in a mile-square area along the Feather River five miles north of Yuba City. Whiteaker described them as "indentations" in the soil.

He declined to say whether officers had probed any suspected sites and found them empty.

"We do believe there are some more areas that need to be checked out and searched," said the sheriff, who refused to discuss any aspect of Corona's involvement other than to say "we're certain he committed the murders."

Corona, a native of Mexico, has operated a farm labor contracting service off and on for 15 years in Yuba City, collecting crews for ranchers at harvest time. With his wife and four daughters, aged 4 through 8, he lived in a three-year-old, $22,000 tract home.

His wife Gloria described him as a good husband and father who couldn't kill anyone.

"I love him and always will want him back home. He ... couldn't have done anything like this," she said.

Sutter County Superior Court records disclosed that Corona, then 22, was committed to Dewitt State Hospital at Auburn, about 50 miles to the southeast, on Jan. 16, 1956, at the request of his brother, Natavid, and two doctors who gave a tentative diagnosis of schizophrenia.

Corona was released as "recovered" three months and two days later.

It also was learned that Corona and his brother were sued for $800,000 in damages a year ago by Jose Romero Raya who claimed the brothers severely beat him. A judge in nearby Marysville awarded $250,000 in still unpaid damages, calling the case "one of the most vicious to come before the court." No criminal charge was filed.

Up to this morning, five of the victims were known to have been identified. The job was complicated by varying stages of decomposition of the bodies and the fact that most were believed to have been transients and drifters.

The first body was found May 20, eight were unearthed Tuesday and three more were discovered Wednesday.

Most of the men were fully dressed with their shirts pulled up over extended arms, but Whiteaker said one victim had no trousers.

They were killed over a period of two months with the most recent slayings occurring within 48 hours of the discovery of the bodies.

Acquaintances of Corona said all the men he hired in his labor contracting business were Mexicans or Mexican-Americans. None of the murder victims was.

Missing person reports began to pour into the sheriff's office

Oliver: New Album ---And New Image

By ERNESTINE GUGLIELMO

MOTHER-IN-LAW'S TONGUE—A rock formation at Meramac Caverns in Stanton, Mo., which was called "Mother-in-Law's Tongue" (allegedly called that because it looks like a tongue) has been renamed "Martha Mitchell's Tongue." So Martha is immortalized at rock-bottom in the Caverns.

STARSHINE SINGER—William Oliver Swofford is a gentle, shy young man who's not exactly new to the music business, having already collected two gold records, "Good Morning, Starshine" and "Jean." He goes by the name of Oliver and he's back with a new album, having changed manager, label and image. The album, recorded by United Artists, is called "Prism."

Unlike his two previous albums, Oliver is pleased with this new one. He says, "Although I realize that I'm inoffensive to older people because they're not frightened by me, I don't like having a pop-star image. This album is a good transition album because it gently tells my audience that I think of other things besides walking in the meadows." Included on "Prism" is Oliver's interpretation of Elton John's "Your Song," Buffalo Springfield's great song, "For What It's Worth," and some of Oliver's own songs, "Comfort Me," "Firelight" and "Days of Rage." There's something for everyone, but more important, there's Oliver, alive, intimate and very real.

BRITISH BAN—Funkadelic, on tour in England, has been banned from the Royal Albert Hall in London. The hall's representative, Marion Herrold, heard several tracks from their current album ("Free Your Mind," etc.) and canceled their appearance because she didn't feel the material was suitable for the patrons of Albert Hall. Frank Zappa and the Mothers of Invention were also banned from the hall a few weeks earlier.

DERBY WORLD—"Derby," which was intended to be a "house" film to promote Roller Derby, has turned out to be a frightening expose of the world surrounding the derby. The movie is an intense confrontation with a part of America misunderstood but more frequently overlooked. This documentary concentrates on the life styles of the participants and the values of its fans more than it does on the actual game. The excerpts from the derby games expose the brute force released during the competition, but it's nothing compared to the unquestioning acceptance of violence in the lives of the characters. The film follows the main character, Mike Snell, who began skating with the Oakland Bay Bombers after the film, and introduces his wife, his girl friends, his children and all those who are part of his world. The audience listens to comments on the war, to a confrontation between Mike's wife and girl friend and to the rationale behind carrying a gun. Yet "Derby" remains a documentary, drawing no conclusion, but never failing to shock and to amuse.
